

Matthieu Wemaëre is an Attorney admitted at the Paris and Brussels Bar Associations. With more than 20 years of experience as a legal and policy advisor, including 6 years in DG ENV of the European Commission, he specializes in national, EU and international environmental and climate change law. He has been extensively involved in the UNFCCC and Kyoto negotiations since 1998. Matthieu has written many publications on all subjects of environmental and climate law, and he gives lectures on these topics at the Law Faculty of Aix en Provence, France, as well as in the LLM Climate Change & Policy Law of the Strathclyde University, Glasgow, UK. His book « The climate diplomacy – Challenges of the international climate regime » he wrote together with Sandrine Maljean Dubois (Director of Research at the National Scientific Research Center (CNRS) in France), was awarded the Prize Claude Bethault, Institut de France, by the French Academy of Moral and Political Sciences in 2011.